

MILK PRODUCTS FORCED ON PUBLIC AT GREAT PROFIT

Consumers Often Pay 100 Per Cent. in Excess of Cost of Manufacture.

NO ESCAPE POSSIBLE.

Condenseries Grab More Than Half Supply, Leaving Little for People.

By Sophie Irene Loeb.

The Evening World investigation, which has set forth the significant facts relating to highly profitable by-products in the milk business, and which has never been computed with the sale of fluid milk, has disclosed a big reason for the high price of fluid milk.

As has been stated in these columns, from 50 to 65 per cent. of the milk production of this State is diverted to the manufacture of by-products rather than in the sale of fluid milk to the people.

As a demonstration of the highly profitable by-products, in one of the most extensive milk producing sections of the country, the same being one of thirty-six factories, operating on condensed and evaporated milk, the average factory cost a year on condensed milk was 13 1-3 cents a can, for which the consumer paid on an average for the year approximately 23 1/2 cents a can.

ICE CHARGED AS HEAVY COST; LITTLE USED.

The average cost of evaporated milk a can was 9 1-2 cents, the same being resold to the consumer at an average price of approximately 18 1-2 cents a can.

It is reported that factory overhead charges were very excessive, even to the extent of approximately $600 a month for ice, when, in reality, little ice was used. The average grade of fluid milk from the producer, within the 150-mile zone of New York, for the year 1918, was 3 per cent. butter fat milk.

The following figures represent the output and factory cost of this plant:

WOMAN MOTORIST SUES FOR A COURT-MARTIAL

Mrs. Simmons Wants Trial or Re-instatement as Corps Commander.

Mrs. Charles Simmons, wealthy and prominent in Staten Island society, has created something of a stir by petitioning Justice Kefauver in the Supreme Court to order the Richmond County Motor Corps either to give her a trial by court-martial or reinstate her as corps commander.

The motor corps has a membership of between 600 and 700 women and girls, most of them prominent in Staten Island society, and is an auxiliary of the Richmond County chapter of the American Red Cross. Mrs. Simmons's withdrawal as its head was without public explanation last November.

She says in her petition that she had been notified by the Secretary that the other members at a meeting had removed her by resolution. She asserts the corps has become a semi-military organization and demands reinstatement, or a trial similar to a court-martial. She resides in the fashionable Country Club section of Dongan Hills.
